

Final meet information / notes

In addition to what is put in our meet information (on parking, pole drop offs, etc) please take note of the following items that will help to make this event run smoothly and not make things so hectic:

- Only bring your poles into the mall when it is your group's turn to compete. We will not have enough room in the mall to store all of the poles for all 90 vaulters at once. If you are a guy who jumps in group 4 and you want to watch some of the other competitions, feel free to do so, but leave your poles on your car. Our announcer will be notifying everyone when they can bring their poles in (one group at a time), so don't stress about it. Tentatively, group 1 should bring in their poles at 8:30am, group 2 around 11:30am, group 3 around 2:30pm and group 4 around 5:30pm. This is a general guide, and again, listen to the announcements and you will be fine!
- Once your group is done competing, you must leave the competition area, take your poles with you, and then you are more than welcome to watch from any other area. The biggest thing that will slow down the meet is people hanging out in the competition area (it will be roped off to identify it) when they shouldn't be there.
- The stage will be utilized by meet management, the film crew, and the announcer and DJ. Please do not go on the stage unless you are escorted up there by meet management.
- There will be a small area for coaches to watch, but again, only for those coaches who have athletes in the group that is currently going on. This not only eliminates too many people in a small space, but it also eliminates coaches trying to coach kids that aren't their athletes (it's becoming an epidemic.....)
- To sum things up..... If you are competing in a certain group, the competition area is strictly for you. Once your group is done, take your poles back to your car, and then come back and be a fan. And shop.
